Privacy policy

One thing on this site collects data: the contact form. Everything that happens to it is below.

The contact form

A message sent through the form reaches me as email. What I process is exactly what you typed into it: your email address, the category you picked, and the message itself.

Automated handling

Handling these messages is automated on my side — the reply is prepared and sent by a machine.

How long

So the automatic reply has something to work from, a message may be kept on a database server for at most 48 hours. After that it is deleted.

Where

The database server sits with the operator MyDevil, in Poland.
